AN ANNOTATED
BIBLIOGRAPHY OF WORKS RELATED TO THE
EDMONTON REGIONAL PLANNING COMMISSION

JULY 1972

A faint, circular library stamp is visible in the lower right quadrant of the page. The text within the stamp is mostly illegible due to fading, but it appears to contain the words "LIBRARY" and "EDMONTON" around the perimeter, with some numbers in the center.

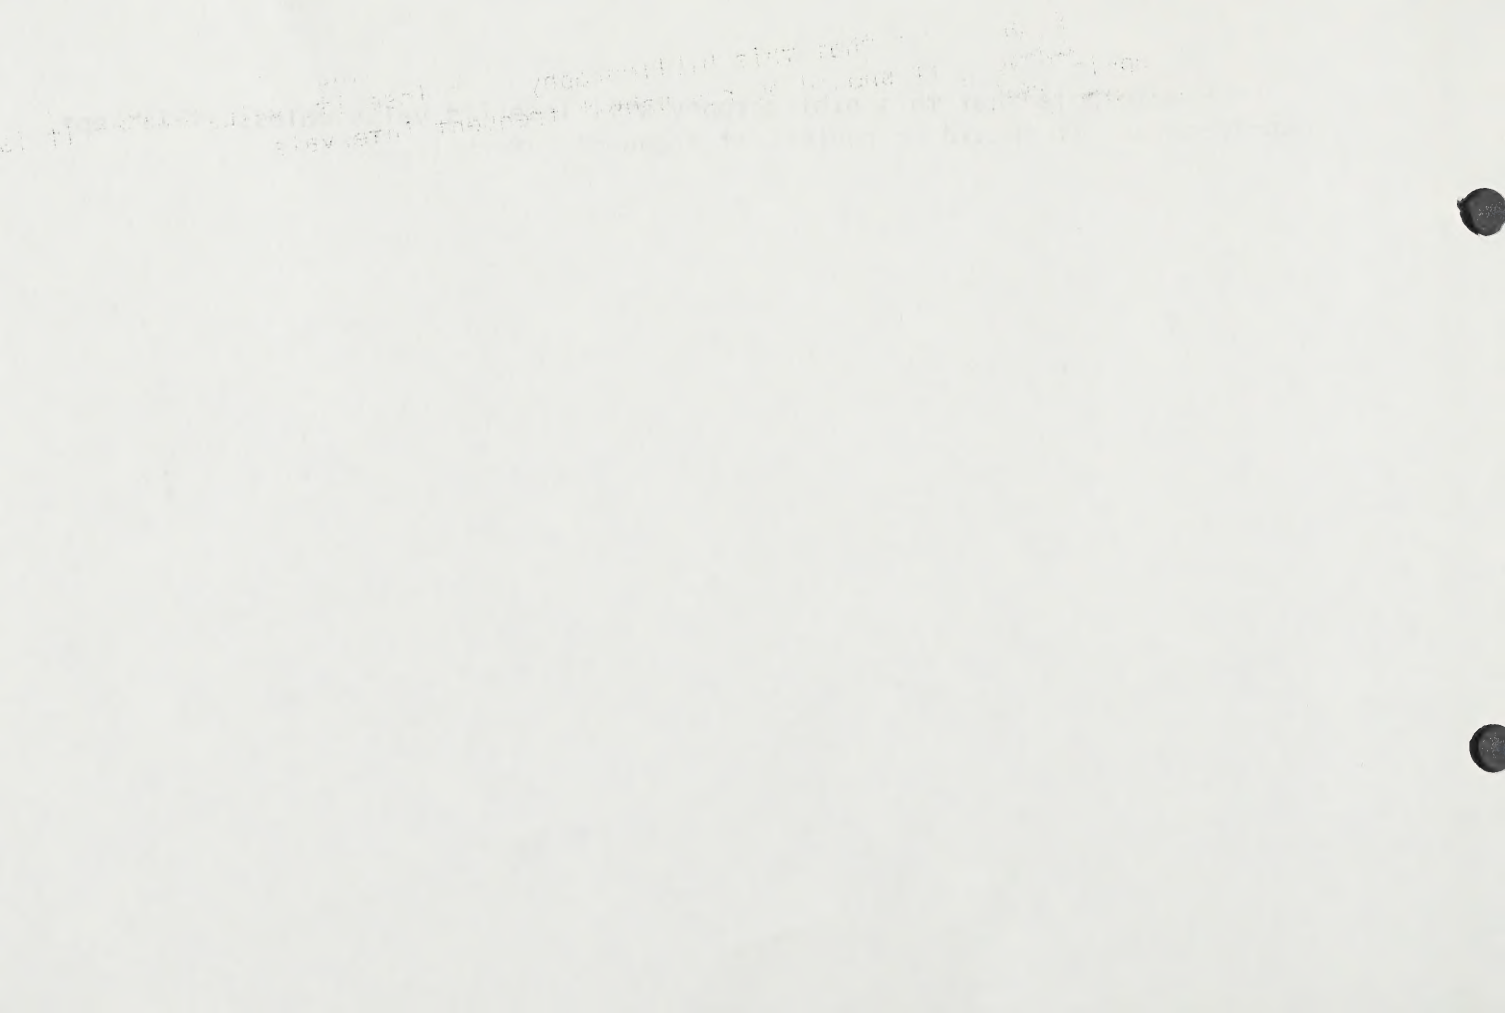

INTRODUCTION

This bibliography has been compiled for the use of staff members of the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission in their research. Because it is difficult to know what data will be required in future research, the bibliography has been kept as complete as possible even though some references may seem to be of only marginal interest to the Commission.

Many libraries and offices were consulted in compiling this bibliography, but some references have undoubtedly been omitted. Therefore, the classification system is general, allowing an opportunity for additions to be made as new studies are carried out and omissions noted. The classification system is an adaptation of the system used by the Canadian Council on Urban and Regional Research. Major sections, (designated by the numbers 0 through 7), have been subdivided into more specific categories, (designated by capital letters), with an occasional third level of classification, (designated by numbers). Each entry in the bibliography is classified according to the number and letter of its category. Some categories have no entries at this time, but entries will probably be made at some future date.

When the information is known, the author, title, publisher, date and number of pages is provided for each reference. Next, the availability of the reference is provided, (although only one location is given, other offices or libraries may contain the book). Finally, a few generalized comments concerning the contents of the reference are mentioned. Hopefully this will provide enough information so that the user of the bibliography can decide if he or she wishes to consult a reference in greater detail.

Please note that this bibliography will lose its value unless it is kept up-to-date. It should be revised at frequent intervals.

United States Department of Agriculture. Urbanization and Changing Land Uses -
A Bibliography of Selected References, 1950-58. Washington, D.C.: May 1960. 212 pages

Available:

U. of A. Cameron Library HT 371Z9D3

Comments:

The book doesn't contain any listing for the Edmonton region, but perhaps the more general listings could be of interest at some point. Categories include Planning, Cities and Fringes, Rural Areas - government, taxation, annexation, encroachment on rural land, etc.

Alberta Department of Municipal Affairs. Provincial Planning Branch. A User-Oriented Summary and Description of the Data Base, Data Processing System and Computerized Document Retrieval System Employed in Regional Land Use Studies. Edmonton: Provincial Planning Branch, May 1971. 126 pages

Available:

E.R.P.C. Library B-82 am. 1

Comments:

The book is a description of the data bank which has been developed containing physical, social, land use and economic data with the quarter section as the unit of input. Thirty-two different sets of data are included in the system - including several Canada Land Inventory sources, watershed protection areas, forest cover, soil type, arable acres, mines, minerals and highways. An example is presented of the Hinton-Yellowhead study area. Presumably data is in the process of being collected, but this will take a long time. The coding method is presented probably in the hope of establishing a uniform Provincial classification system.

Edmonton. City Planning Department. Edmonton Planning Information System.
December, 1970.

Available:

E.R.P.C. Library B-82 e.4

Comments:

Reviews the research and study and presents the final proposal of the City Planning Department concerning the implementation of a population and land use information system. The system would maintain information in a computer intelligible form about individual parcels of land, the buildings thereon, and the population and/or activity relative to each parcel.

Two previous reports on the project - the pilot study proposal and a progress report are also in the E.R.P.C. Library.

Canada Department of Forestry and Rural Development. Canada Land Inventory - The Climates of Canada for Agriculture. Canada Land Inventory Report No. 3, 1966. 24 pages and 24 maps

Available:

In the E.R.P.C. Library D-12 a. 1

Comments:

The maps are quite detailed, (of all Canada), showing: July mean temperature, January mean temperature, mean annual minimum temperature, date of the start of the growing season (mean temperature above 42°F.), end of the growing season, degree days above 42°F., mean spring frost date, mean fall frost date, mean frost-free period (in days), corn heat units, mean monthly precipitation, average annual precipitation, average May to September precipitation, potential evapotranspiration, average annual water deficiency, average annual actual evapotranspiration, temperature zones, moisture classes, climatic regions for agriculture.

There is also a written text. As the maps are for all of Canada, the information is most valuable as a comparison of the Edmonton region to other regions, not for detailed study of the Edmonton Region.

Canada Department of Transport and Division of Building Research, Meteorological Division. Climatological Atlas of Canada. Ottawa, 1953.

Available:

In the E.R.P.C. Library D-12 t. 1

Comments:

All the maps are small-scale maps of Canada. Information on temperature, wind, humidity, snow, rain, sunshine, insolation, earthquake probability and permafrost. There is a hythergraph on Edmonton on page 221 - a graph showing precipitation, temperature and prevailing wind.

Longley, Richmond W. Climatic Maps for Alberta. Edmonton: Department of Geography,
University of Alberta, 1968. 28 maps

Available:

In the U. of A. Cameron Library QC 985.5 A3A33

Comments:

The maps are at a small scale and show the whole province on a single map.

Available:

In the E.R.P.C. library D-13 b. 1

Comments:

The area covered is from Townships 49 to 55 and Ranges 21 to 28 West of the 4th. Includes maps and written text and tables.

Campbell, J. D. Catalogue of Coal Mines of the Alberta Plains, Research Council of Alberta Preliminary Report 64-3, 1964. 140 pages plus a location map at a scale of 1" to 12 miles.

Available:

In the E.R.P.C. library D-13 c. 3

Comments:

A comprehensive catalogue is presented of all coal mines that have been registered or opened in the plains regions of Alberta, (includes the ERPC area). Included are data on surrounding terrain, geology, and composition of the coal. Mines listed on the basis of township, range and section.

Carlson, V.A. Bedrock Topography and Surficial Aquifers of the Edmonton District.

Available:

In the ERPC library D-13 c. 2

Comments:

The area covered is Townships 49 to 56, Ranges 1 to 14 West of the 5th.
Contents - physical features, drainage, general geology, description of formations, physiographic units, glacial sections.

Gabert, Gordon M. "The Geology and Hydrogeology of the Surficial Deposits in the Devon Area, Alberta." Unpublished M.Sc. Thesis, University of Alberta, 1968. 215 pages

Available:

In the U. of A. Cameron Library Special Collections department.

Comments:

The area covered is Tp. 51, Ranges 26 and 27 with some on each side. Considers bedrock, surficial deposits, groundwater chemistry and availability.

Hamilton, Sally Anne. "An Historical Geography of Coal Mining in the Edmonton Area." Unpublished M.A. Thesis, University of Alberta, 1971. 190 pages plus maps

Available:

In the U. of A. Cameron Library Special Collections department.

Comments:

Concerned with mining within Edmonton mostly, but does show location of coal mines immediately around the City. Geology, history, economics, and present situation are all considered. There is also a discussion of problems posed on development because of underground mines.

Hughes, George M. 'A study of Pleistocene Lake Edmonton and Associated Deposits.'
Unpublished M.Sc. Thesis, University of Alberta, 1958.

Available:

In the Research Council of Alberta Library Q111A33 No. 35

Comments:

This thesis concerns an area of 1390 square miles around Edmonton, (113°00' to 114°00'W. and 53°15' to 53°45'N.). It includes chapters on physiography, description of materials, Pleistocene and recent history, and two large maps -- "Glacial Geology Edmonton District" and "Reconstruction of Lake Edmonton".

Available:

In the ERPC Library D-15 f. 1

Comments:

The report was prepared to outline the current status of knowledge on groundwater occurrence in the plains region of Alberta. It provides an introduction to the study of groundwater, for example, the favourable geological conditions for groundwater are discussed. The chemistry of Alberta groundwaters is also discussed. Statistics are presented for selected centres, including Calmar, Fort Saskatchewan, Leduc, Mayerthorpe and Spruce Grove. Current problems and anticipated future problems in groundwater supply are mentioned as well as the ownership of and rights to groundwater.

Available:

In the U. of A. Cameron Library Special Collections Department

Comments:

The topic is studied from the point of view of metropolitan growth into surrounding municipalities. High property tax levels prohibit development on an urban scale, therefore other sources of funds will be needed to improve community facilities in these centers. There are many statistics - property tax levels and community characteristics associated with this. The Towns within the ERPC area are examined and an "inner ring" with Morinville, Stony Plain and Leduc on its circumference is distinguished.

Makale, Holloway and Associates, Ltd. Urban Design River Lots 41 to 45 St. Albert Settlement. July 1970. 73 pages

Available:

In the ERPC Library C-53 m. 3

Comments:

This is a study of demand for housing and community facilities. The study forms the analytical basis for Phase I of the concept plan for the area. There are many statistics on university - related population, housing demand, education and recreation, commercial facilities and phasing of development. Part II - the design. This plan is based on the assumption of the establishment of Athabasca University in St. Albert.
